A Message from the President

Team,

As the calendar turns into 2017, I want to send my sincerest thanks for everyone that made 2016 into the year it was. We saw some difficulties, but as a company we came together to overcome the obstacles and have a successful year.

We were able to grow as a company, claimed a number of awards, sponsored numerous charitable causes, and began honoring and recognizing our most important asset: you.

As a company we were honored with Military Friendly Employer Gold award, the first time that Gold, Silver, and Bronze were awarded. We were in the Training Top 125 and Learning Elite, as well as individual awards given to numerous people within G4S.

We continued to stress safety with our 2nd Annual Safety Stand Down Day, our Safety Moment coming once a week, and the continuation of Why I Work Safely. Two of our sites reached impressive safety milestones, as teams in Texas and Georgia reached 18 and 11 years, respectively, without a recordable injury.

Beginning in February we started Shout Outs, our weekly thank you to employees across the country. We were able to recognize numerous individuals and teams for their hard work, life-saving actions, and day-to-day dedication to this company and our clients.

Without a strong foundation a building is sure to collapse. You are our foundation and you continue to remain sturdy and I couldn't be more proud of the work that we put in that has put us in the position we are.

Thank you for all that you do and I look forward to our future in 2017 and the years beyond.

SEAMLESS TRANSITION

After seven years in the U.S. Army, Jarus Perez found a fit at G4S

Jarus Perez has been an instrumental part of the G4S Secure Solutions Northern and Central California locations for the past two years. Prior to his career with G4S, Perez spent more than seven years in the U. S. Army, during which time he participated in both Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom. During his time in the Army, Perez deployed multiple times and quickly assumed leadership roles, eventually achieving the position of platoon sergeant.

“Being deployed taught me the value of good leadership,” says Perez, who carried these leadership skills with him as he progressed through his military career and applied them to his current career as a training specialist with G4S. “As a platoon sergeant, my main concern was taking care of my soldiers and providing them with the skills and equipment needed to complete the mission. In my position with G4S, I am responsible for training security officers to the best of my ability and providing them with the tools necessary for their duties.”

As a wounded veteran, Perez recalls the transition into the civilian workforce as the most challenging endeavor he has ever experienced. After being wounded in 2011 by a dismounted IED that detonated just two feet from him, Perez knew his life was changed forever. As he underwent surgery, extensive physical therapy and coped with his departure from the Army, Perez was desperately searching for a new “identity” and purpose in life.

“Becoming a part of G4S helped ease my transition into the civilian workforce. It was the structure of the military that helped me to adapt more quickly,” he states, adding that G4S’ military-friendly environment, as well as being familiar with the company values and having the unique experiences and training former service members bring to the table, made all the difference in his search for a second career. “The security industry is something I am passionate about, and given my experiences in training and instructing courses in the Army, I jumped on the chance to apply for the training specialist position at G4S.”

As a training specialist, Perez is responsible for the initial orientation of new hires, as well as the maintenance of contract-required training for each site and its officers, but his reach is felt far beyond these duties.

Praised by his supervisor, Bob Schreiner, for being passionate and enthusiastic about his work, Schreiner says, “Jarus is an instrumental part of our ongoing efforts to recruit, hire and retain service veterans.” Noted, too, is the fact that Perez also helped pioneer an extremely comprehensive firearms training and safety program for all of the region’s armed personnel.

Perez encourages other wounded veterans to be proactive, persistent and resourceful when attempting to enter the civilian workforce, acknowledging the difficulty of the situation. “Surrounding yourself with positive and supportive people is crucial to your effective transition,” he advises, reminding his fellow veterans to stay strong.

“It will get better,” he adds, much like it did for him when finding an organization like G4S, where his supervisors recognize the value of his military experience, saying, “We benefit from Jarus’ energy and knowledge, and are extremely fortunate to have him on our staff.”

Jarus Perez receives a Certificate of Appreciation for his support to the Work for Warriors program and his commitment to hire service members, post-9/11 veterans, their spouses and families.

As Hurricane Matthew Raged On, G4S Didn't Punch Out

At the end of October, Hurricane Matthew wrecked havoc on the Southeastern United States. Evacuations were in effect throughout parts of Florida, Georgia and South Carolina as one of the strongest hurricanes in nearly a decade worked its way up the coast.

While millions of people were taken from their homes, and flooding resulted in $1.5 billion in damage to 100,000 homes in North Carolina alone, G4S' Hurricane Relief Team stayed on duty throughout the weekend. Beginning in Miami, 40 officers were flown in to help support local clients in the affected areas.

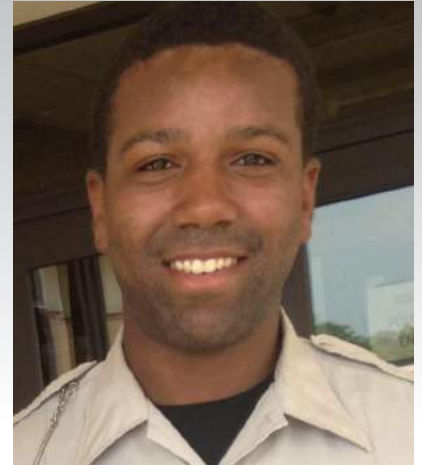

As Hurricane Matthew worked its way up the coast, the team chased it, covering sites and locations from Miami through North Carolina. G4S met with every local client to review the Disaster Emergency Plan and determine if someone was in the area to have on guard. Multiple clients asked for and received officers working during the storm.

Before the storm, officers on duty were given an extra day to take care of personal matters and make sure that their homes, families, and loved ones were taken care of and prepared for any scenario.

In Jacksonville, the G4S team that regularly works with CSX assisted in maintaining order for the seven locations in the city.

To the volunteers and the officers that stood post and helped maintain sites, a big thank you for keeping the company and our clients in safe and secure hands.

Milwaukee Honors Officer With Cobb Award

G4S Officer Devonte Cobb

G4S Wisconsin lost a valued member of its team when Officer Devonte Cobb tragically passed away in December. Cobb was recruited to G4S with his wife, Dominique, working under Gail Ford in Racine.

In October, Cobb was deployed to Florida for relief efforts for Hurricane Matthew. Ford was so excited and proud of Cobb that she drove him to the airport for his first plane trip. Cobb was a dependable and trusted employee, working the third shift in Racine.

The Wisconsin team created the Devonte Cobb Emergency Deployment Award in Cobb's honor, giving him the first award. The award honors individuals who show dedication and selflessness deployed to disaster areas and other emergency situations.

Cobb was a valued member of the team and his loss is felt by the many individuals who had the pleasure to work with him.
