Security with military precision

G4S Gurkha officers work with a military strategy in mind, effective for securing high risk environments where there is a higher level of threat involved.

G4S Gurkhas bring a unique approach and philosophy to the most challenging situations. Our workforce consists of enhanced security officers from a variety of backgrounds and former British Army Gurkha officers. These different groups of officers complement one another, allowing a wider set of capabilities while on duty.

The Gurkha ethos

Gurkhas have served the British Crown for almost 200 years and fought and died alongside their British comrades in nearly every major war. Displaying loyalty, energy, discipline and honour, our ex-military management team all maintain their Gurkha ethos, and this is instilled within their teams. These attributes result in very low turnover of staff and exceptional levels of professionalism, calmness and clarity - even in volatile and traumatic situations.

G4S Gurkha Services excel in:

- Guarding business and military facilities
- Critical and national infrastructure
- Protest management and high-risk environment security
- Harsh, remote and austere environments
- Metal theft specialism
- Short-notice and rapid-response deployments
- Maintaining health and safety compliance while on site
- Training, support and casualty simulations

“ The Gurkha team were courteous, disciplined and watchful; doing a great job. With the help of the risk assessments, we knew that all eventualities would be dealt with as the presence could be boosted depending on the threat level. ”

Event Producer, Enigma

Your cause, our effect

The Gurkha approach combines military and non-military methods to achieve the desired results.

G4S Gurkha officers specialise in taking a consultative approach where security and safety risks are considered a strategic threat. We will determine what the security requirements are, and design a solution that protects against risk and threats to the site.

- We will examine each location and potential weak spot from multiple perspectives to determine where the highest risk areas are.
- Based on this information, we will identify what resources are required in order to maintain maximum control and efficiency.
- A strategy is identified and resources are allocated to achieve the desired results with optimum effect.

G4S Gurkha officers are able to secure a diverse range of locations, including sites where traditional welfare facilities are non-existent.

CASE STUDY

Unconventional gas exploration

G4S Gurkha Services provide security and risk management services for one of the UK's leading unconventional gas exploration and production companies. With a growing 'anti-fracking' movement, the Gurkha Services management team conducted a full risk assessment to assess the various threats, vulnerabilities and risks associated with different locations on-site. This allowed the team to maximise resources and efficiencies at each location, delivering a total security solution.

“ Across a range of operations, G4S has been impressive, innovative and highly professional. I have been delighted by their flexible operations, rapid response, and strong customer focus. ”

High-level security in action

G4S Gurkha officers provide an enhanced security service for customers with higher risk requirements and can offer strategic advice when dealing with volatile situations.

Enhanced guarding

Our highly trained Gurkha officers design risk based strategies to secure and protect high value assets such as buildings, equipment and people. The management team conduct risk assessments in order to develop the correct security strategy for a particular site, or range of sites within a portfolio.

Metal theft

G4S Gurkha Services engage in anti-metal theft operations across a range of industries including:

- Power generation and distribution
- Construction
- National infrastructure

G4S Gurkha officers analyse and identify likely targets by conducting surveillance operations and compiling intelligence reports on the various hot spots. Using a combination of different tactics our officers monitor, interdict and detain intruders before handing over to the appropriate emergency services.

Critical and national infrastructure

When disasters such as mass flooding or acts of terrorism occur, the country's critical and national infrastructure is put under threat. This is the underlying framework of facilities, sites and networks that are necessary for the functioning of daily life including:

- Water
- Transport
- Finance
- Emergency Services
- Energy
- Communications
- Health
- Government

In the event of a civil emergency, our officers can be deployed at short notice to work alongside emergency services and other government agencies in order to contain the incident.

Protest management

With an understanding of the industries that our customers operate in, the G4S Gurkha management team gather intelligence and plan ahead in order to pre-empt and/or deal with large scale protests and demonstrations. However these sorts of events are by their very nature unpredictable and can break out at short notice. A peaceful protest can quickly escalate into a dangerous situation requiring expert knowledge and immediate action. Our officers can be called upon at short notice to implement command and control operations to deal with any situation that arises.

Protest management at a power station

G4S Gurkha officers were called upon to assist one of our customers protect their coal fired power station from over 2,000 protestors. During this deployment over 60 of our officers conducted anti-protest operations over a period of four days while the site was effectively locked-down. As a result, the power plant was able to continue providing power to thousands of homes during this co-ordinated and violent protest.

“ The security operations delivered by G4S have been designed in collaboration to suit the risk environments of a number of sites in our portfolio. The management team is responsive and pro-active and they act swiftly to manage and resolve issues with minimal impact. ”

Expert cooperation to protect the nation

Versatile and prepared for anything, G4S Gurkha Services has developed strong relationships with the public sector, civil authorities, government agencies and the military. We offer flexible support and training which plays an integral role in protecting the UK - both domestically and overseas.

Ministry of Defence

The Ministry of Defence works in cooperation with our accomplished officers as part of its military provision. The service brings targeted, on-demand support which enables the military to free up its personnel, enhance training and cut costs. Our teams are handpicked for their military qualifications, operational experience and knowledge of the latest tactics and procedures.

Civil authority

Dealing with civil disturbances and adverse weather conditions can put an extra strain on the resources of responding agencies. In an era when the Armed Forces no longer provide manpower for Military Aid to the Civil Authorities (MACA) tasks, G4S Gurkha Services bring disciplined personnel to situations that require extra support.

Casualty simulation

G4S Gurkha Services provide state-of-the-art casualty simulation programmes to personnel that may encounter high casualty situations. From minor to life threatening injuries, the key to success lies in achieving a high degree of realism. We use specialist simulation make-up artists as well as casualty and amputee actors to deliver powerful and effective training.
