We Will Get You Moving Again

Responding - Adapting - Evolving

CATALYST - WE WILL GET YOU MOVING AGAIN

In business, being one step ahead of the competition is the only thing that ensures your survival. The COVID-19 crisis has distorted competition for too long, but as normality returns, so too does the necessity for agility and innovation to secure an advantage.

Once government restrictions ease and are eventually lifted, businesses who have a plan will move faster and more assuredly than their rivals. Thinking through how your business will return to work is now a mission critical requirement. Planning now will give you the confidence that you have the procedures and the practical assistance in place to ensure a swift return to profitability and give your employees the confidence that they require to get your business back on track.

Mission critical requirements are what G4S Risk Management does. To meet the prevailing need, we now offer clients a comprehensive package sensitive to the requirements of their business and, delivered alongside long-term medical partners who specialise in mission enabling medicine in demanding environments, designed to give you the edge in a business world scarred by the effects of the pandemic.

In short, our package provides you with a toolkit to get the wheels of your business turning. We call it “Catalyst”. It includes:

ASSESSMENT, PLANNING AND ADVISORY

A Covid-19 Bio-Risk Health & Safety Assessment

- Tailored to your specific business and covering all your operational processes, people and assets.
- A gap analysis of what you have in place and what you will need to mitigate the COVID-19 risk.

Ongoing Advice

- The ability to reachback into a global organisation at any stage in the process to access business intelligence and analysis on the changing nature of the threat and how it will affect you, your customers and suppliers.
- Access to specialist medical and public health advice from eminent practitioners and experts from across the globe.

A formal, documented plan for how, when and where people should return to work

- A staged plan for the re-occupation of your work spaces that works with the grain of your business and is written in concert with you.
- Changed and updated policies and procedures incorporating the bio-risk protocols to govern the new ways of working you require.
- A flexible roadmap through the continued disruption and back to normal business.

WE WILL GET YOU MOVING AGAIN

IMPLEMENTATION IN YOUR WORKPLACE

A structured, documented and effective Dis-Infection of all working facilities

- G4S staff will conduct a rapid and highly effective disinfection using internationally approved products to market-leading standards or conduct onsite training of your own staff to develop your organic capability.
- This process can be repeated as often as deemed necessary and includes specialist techniques for the disinfection of buildings, vehicles, stockpiles and other assets.

Onsite education facilities for staff, delivered and monitored by trained medical staff including planning for:

- Entry thermal screening.
- Infection control procedures in the workplace (personal and workspace).
- Provision of First Aid for Mental Health training

Monitoring and Evaluation and Review

The situation is fluid and the measures you will require will vary hugely depending on situation, timing and the law. Success should be regularly reviewed and the cycle refined and repeated. Our team will deliver ongoing monitoring and evaluation and dynamic management to all our clients to give them the assurance that today's solution matches today's challenge.

Workplace Testing

We will establish and run a testing regime using proven testing technologies that offer rapid and assured results. While all tests are conducted in the workplace, clients can choose either a lab-based or on the spot diagnostic system for speedy results.

Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) Issuing and Monitoring

G4S will assess your peoples differing needs for PPE across the range of roles you employ. We will supply the protocols and the practitioners to monitor how and to whom this is issued and ensure stocks are working and in date at all times.

G4S Risk Management will provide you with a turnkey solution to get you back into the game - ahead of the competition...
