SECURITY PATROLS

A visible deterrent to criminals

Who looks after your sites and assets when you and your staff are not there? An empty property - be it vacant or out-of-hours - is vulnerable to vandalism and theft. The price of which is not just the cost of repair or replacement. How much would it really cost to have your business interrupted in this way?

G4S can supply flexible, regular or random patrols by uniformed officers in clearly identified vehicles. Their mere presence acts as a visible deterrent to criminals.

Our officers can help to improve energy efficiency by switching off unnecessary lights at the end of the working day, power down approved equipment and stay alert for issues such as a flood when a tap is left running.

It's not just you who will be pleased at our presence: round-the-clock security could result in lower insurance premiums. In the case of vacant sites, it ensures insurance compliance, too.

Our services are simple and easy to take up in 3 simple steps

SECURITY PATROLS

What does partnering with G4S look like?

- We have nationwide coverage and can provide patrols to all your sites anywhere in the UK. We offer a bespoke service with flexible security that can be upgraded when needed to a more permanent site presence.
- When supplied in combination with our alarm monitoring service, you'll benefit from clear accountability for security incident response.
- Our staff are loyal. We have 85 percent security patrol officer retention - the highest in the industry. This means our customers receive the best security through highly trained, well motivated, experienced employees. In addition, we are proud of our 80 per cent customer retention, which is achieved by delivering 98 per cent of our annual security patrols within Service Level Agreement.
- We manage the behaviour of our mobile security officers and vehicles. We use tracking technology to monitor average and maximum vehicle speed, reward good behaviour and take corrective action when required.
- Upon completion of the patrol, our officers use SMART handheld technology, to transfer data to a simple, easy to use portal - providing you with information which evidences the completion of our activities - from wherever you are.
