OUR APPROACH

Exposure to political and business risks presents significant challenges for investment and operational security, especially in emerging, complex, and frontier markets. We provide the intelligence analysis, expert advice, and actionable insights necessary to navigate these threats, mitigate risks, and safeguard operations confidently.

Our specially trained open-source intelligence analysts are regional and thematic experts and regularly spend time on the ground working with our G4S country teams and supporting project delivery.

We leverage our global footprint, extensive on-the-ground networks and open-source intelligence, to ensure our clients receive access to the best available information.

Our approach is based on committed partnerships with our clients. Our confidence in meeting our clients' goals and quality standards comes from the direct access we provide to our team of analysts. Our clients receive the highest level of support due to our team's comprehensive understanding of client challenges. This enables us to deliver incisive foresight and informed strategic advice, providing a comprehensive intelligence picture that answers not just the 'why' and 'how' but the 'so what', the 'what if' and the 'what next'.

OUR PAST PERFORMANCE INCLUDES:

- Frequent bespoke security risk and threat assessments to support event security, participant safety, and facility protection for a global sporting body operating in multiple countries.
- Detailed risk advisory to support the design, planning, and construction process for a US$14 billion oil refinery in the Middle East.
